

2012 National English Contest for College Students

(Level B - Preliminary)

参考答案及评分标准

Part I. Listening Comprehension 30 points

- 1 5 CABBA      6 10 ABCBA      11 15 CBABC      16 20 BBACC
21. a few (some) small    22. earn      23. salary      24. budget      25. a house
26. essentials      27. credit card    28. the interest    29. 10% (ten percent)    30. every year

Part II. Multiple Choice (15 points)

Section A (10 points)

- 31 35 BCCAA    36 40 ACBDB

Section B (5 points)

- 41 45 CBADA

Part III. Cloze (10 points)

46. fossil      47. contribute      48. farmers      49. oceans      50. systematically
51. recycle      52. decomposes      53. genetically      54. public      55. inhabited

Part IV. Reading Comprehension (40 points)

Section A (10 points)

56. D    57. B
58. refined sugars, artificial colors and chemicals
59. a moderate exercise lasting less than 30 minutes
60. an intravenous fluid

Section B (10 points)

61. It can be considered rude to tip.
62. Up to 20% of the bill.
63. About $3 to $5 per room per day.
64. Because workers are expected to increase their wage with tips.
65. It lists the generous and bad / (not so generous) celebrity tippers.

Section C (10 points)

66. universes      67. unapproachable      68. enticed
69. well-intentioned    70. interests and needs

Section D (10 points)

71. T    72. T    73. F

74.
75.

Part V. Translation (10 points)

76. Experts say that overseas educated returnees no longer have obvious advantages on the job market now, as their population has increased sharply.
77. All of the top 15 universities in the world are either in the US or in Britain.
78. If we were to eliminate all reclining chairs, no one would fall asleep while watching television.
79. Pledged to discover the fact, the journalist began to dig up new evidence for the readers.
80. More and more farmers believe that rural life far surpasses urban life.

Part VI. Error Correction (10 points)

One of the worst thing you can do as a speaker is to hold your arms stiffly at your side. You need to move your arms in appropriate gestures to emphasise your points. Your gestures should appear spontaneously, not rehearsed. This doesn't mean that you shouldn't rehearse it. The point is to make them seem to be spontaneous, fitted the text. Don't use just your hands or the lower part of your arms. You need to move the whole body with a way that looks natural with the gesture.

In addition, you should  $\wedge$  aware of your body language as you use gestures. Your facial expression should mirror the emotion you might be demonstrating. For example, if you are talking about something frightening and are holding up your arms as if to protect yourself, your face should have a fear expression.

81. things
82. sides
83. emphasize
84. spontaneous
85. them
86. fitting
87. in
88. be
89. ✓
90. fearful

Part VII. IQ Test (5 points)

91. 2, 5
92. fedora
93. modest
94. Because shelter is necessary for everyone, the problem of providing adequate housing has long been a concern, not only of individuals but also of governments.
95. E

Part VIII. Writing (30 points)

参考范文略

作文评分标准

一、评分原则：

1. I 10 II 20

2.

3. I 80 120 II 120 160 2

4.

二、各档次给分范围和要求：

I 9-10 II 16-20

I 6-8 II 11-15

I 3-5 II 6-10

I 1-2 II 1-5

0

2012 National English Contest for College Students

(Level B - Preliminary)

听力原文

Part I: Listening Comprehension (30 points)

Section A (5 points)

In this section, you will hear five short conversations. Each conversation will be read only once. At the end of each conversation, there will be a pause, read the question and the three choices marked A, B, and C, and decide which is the best answer. Then mark the corresponding letter on the answer sheet with a single line through the centre.

1. Woman: If I were you, I'd take the bus to school. Driving in that rush-hour traffic is terrible.

Man: But by the time the bus gets to my stop, there aren't any seats left.

Question: What is the man's problem?

2. Woman: I'd like to take Dr. Sullivan's section of Physics 100, but my advisor is teaching it too, and I don't want her to be offended.

Man: Who cares?

Woman: Well, I don't want to get on her bad side.

Man: I wouldn't worry about it.

Question: What does the man mean?

3. Man: You mean Dr. Franklin said you couldn't have an extension?

Woman: He said it was not his policy.

Man: Really?

Woman: Yes, so now I have to work over the holiday weekend.

Question: Why does the woman have to work over the holiday weekend?

4. Man: I'd like to become a member of your club, but I'm not sure if I'm too young.

Woman: Well, if you're under 18, you would need a parent or guardian over the age of 20 to get a family membership and include you on that. But actually anyone can use the gym facilities; we have a girl who's 12 and who comes here to train in the swimming pool every day.

Question: How old does the boy have to be to get his own membership to the gym?

5. Woman: Hi John, did you get many respondents to your survey on teenagers?

Man: Yes, I had a huge number of responses, which was great. I had a quick look at the results last night.

It was quite surprising because over half of the teenagers we spoke to said they actually had a good relationship with their parents. I was expecting it to be a lot less than that. I mean the popular myth is that very few teenagers are happy at home.

Woman: Clearly that's not true, is it?

Question: Looking at the survey results, why was the man surprised?

Section B (10 points)

In this section, you will hear two long conversations. Each conversation will be read only once. At the end of each conversation, there will be a pause, read five questions and the three choices marked A, B, and C, and decide which is the best answer. Then mark the corresponding letter on the answer sheet with a single line through the centre.

Conversation I

Man: Dr. Kelly, do you have a minute?

Woman: Sure. Come in.

Man: Thanks. I need to talk with you about my sociology class.

Woman: Let's see, that would be Sociology 530 with Dr. Brown.

Man: Right. The problem is that when I scheduled that class, it was supposed to be offered at three o'clock in the afternoon, Tuesdays and Thursdays, but for some reason the time has been changed to nine in the morning. Since I work mornings, I can't take it at that time.

Woman: I see. Well, would you like to drop the class?

Man: Yes, but I also need to pick up another class. I have to be a full-time student in order to qualify for my student loan.

Woman: So you need at least twelve hours. And you need afternoon classes.

Man: That's right. Or evening classes.

Woman: Did you have anything in mind?

Man: Yes. I was considering Sociology 560 or 570. I thought I'd get your opinion.

Woman: Either one will fit into your program since you are a Sociology major, and they are both electives. Too bad you can't get a compulsory course.

Man: I know, but they all seem to be offered in the morning.

Woman: Okay, then. Which one is the most interesting to you?

Man: I'm interested in both of them, but I was thinking since Dr. Brown teaches Sociology 560, I might prefer that one. I've been trying to take a class with her because I hear that she is an excellent professor.

Woman: Good. The class is open, and I'll just sign that drop-add form for you to drop 530 and add 560. You can just tell Dr. Brown what happened when you see her in class.

Man: Okay. Thanks a lot, Dr. Kelly. I really appreciate it.

Woman: Don't mention it.

Conversation II

Man: Felicity. Hi.

Woman: Oh, hello there, Adrian.

Man: How's Nigel, and the kids, Margie and Fergal?

Woman: Splendid. Just great. And, er, Olivia and, the kids?

Man: Very well thanks.

Woman: Splendid. That's just splendid. You know, I really must...

Man: So, how were the Easter holidays?

Woman: Oh, right, yes, an absolute nightmare. Nigel's parents came to stay and were so boring. Thank goodness for the golf club. And you?

Man: Great actually. We went away.

Woman: Really? You know, I really must go...

Man: We had thought about going to the Caribbean, but Olivia said that she'd been there before. Then, we booked a trip to the Greek Islands, but Olivia had forgotten about some important meeting she had, so we had to cancel that. Eventually, we left the kids at home and Olivia and I went to Easter Island.

Woman: Easter Island? For Easter, how amusing. Oh, right, it's, erm, a real place, is it?

Man: Yes, it's an island in the South Pacific.

Woman: Jolly good. Erm, difficult to get to, I imagine?

Man: Five and a half hours from Santiago.

Woman: Santiago?

Man: The capital of Chile.

Woman: Really? I never knew. Sounds fascinating.

Man: We went for the heads of course. Or should I say the "moai".

Woman: Yes, yes. I suppose you did... heads? What heads?

Man: The moai. They're large heads.

Woman: Moai? Heads?

Man: Haven't you ever seen the Easter Island statues?

Woman: Well, yes, of course, although I haven't quite got round to visiting them myself. They sound terribly interesting.

Man: For many years the heads were a mystery.

Woman: Oh yes? So, what was the food like? Lots of fish, I suppose, it being an island.

Man: There are moai all over the island. The statues had been there for centuries before the Europeans arrived. No one really knows why they were built, although the most popular theory is that the statues were religious. The big mystery is how they managed to move the heavy stones around the island. Just before we went, a group of archaeologists had attempted to move some rocks of similar weight as part of an experiment, but they found it extremely difficult...

Woman: Fascinating. So, did you play any golf?

Man: There are 887 statues in total. In fact, the statues are not just heads - they're whole figures, although only one has legs. They were carved from volcanic rock between 1100 and 1680 AD. The majority are still in the crater of the volcano. Three hundred and ninety four of them, to be precise.

Woman: Well, well. Good swimming, I suppose. Did you do any scuba diving? Nigel and I had a go last time we were in Sardinia. Great fun.

Man: The biggest moai is called Paro and is nearly 10 metres tall and weighs over 70 tonnes.

Woman: Splendid. Splendid. So, anyway, I really must go because I've got the kids at home and I have to get the dinner ready, and then I've got to pick up Nigel from the gym, and then, I'm...

Section C (5 points)

In this section, you will hear five short news items. Each item will be read only once. After each item, there will be a pause, read the question and the three choices marked A, B, and C, and decide which is the best answer. Then mark the corresponding letter on the answer sheet with a single line through the centre.

16. The global fund to fight Aids, tuberculosis and malaria has decided not to fund any new programmes as a result of cuts in its resources from donor nations. The fund says it will continue to support only essential services in existing programmes after a shortfall of hundreds of millions of dollars. A spokesman for the fund told the BBC the cuts put the progress in combating disease at risk and threatened the lives of people in the developing world.
17. As you can see from these pictures, parts of the southern U.S. have some cleaning up to do after severe weather swept across the region yesterday. There were suspected tornadoes as part of the storms. They stretched from Louisiana through Mississippi, Alabama and Georgia. Parts of a few other states were under a tornado watch as well. At least one person was killed. Several others were injured. And there was major damage to some homes and buildings. The strong winds and possible tornado knocked down trees and left more than a thousand people without power.
18. Ukraine has been hardest hit with temperatures falling to  $-33^{\circ}\text{C}$ . The government there said that more than 130 people had died, many of them homeless. In Bosnia, helicopters have been ferrying food to isolated villages and also moving sick people in the capital Sarajevo, where the transport system has literally frozen to a standstill. In neighbouring Serbia, officials said that 70,000 people remain cut off. Even in Rome, there's been snow, the heaviest fall in more than a quarter of a century.
19. In the hot and humid piney woods of the Deep South, you'll find a small industrial city that has become a hub for trucks that crisscross the nation. But Meridian, Mississippi - population 40,000 - was once an important railroad center. It was there, more than 80 years ago, that the man known as the "Father of Country Music" lived and died.

university. The seminar will be given twice. For questions 21–30, complete the notes in three words or fewer for each blank. Remember to write the answers on the answer sheet.

Good morning everyone. Today I'm going to talk to you about how to manage money. I'm afraid I'm not going to tell you how to get rich quick, but I will tell you some simple things you can do and that will help you save more money. So, I'm going to give you five tips... simple but important advice to make sure you manage your money successfully.

Now the first point is about how much you spend. It's really important that you don't overspend. For example, if you earn $2000 a month, don't spend $2500. This is really simple. Spending less doesn't have to be difficult. You can just cut back or reduce what you spend by a little, just a few small things, then it can make a big saving. Maybe just buy one cup of coffee a day, instead of two. These small changes can make a difference.

Ah, the next point is about how much you earn. It's important that your salary is appropriate for your job. Find out how your salary compares to other people doing the same kind of job in two or three companies. If you're going to work long hours or have lots of responsibility, you need to make sure you're getting paid enough.

Another important point is that you need a budget. That's a simple plan of what you spend your money on. If you have a plan, it will make saving money a lot easier. Everyone needs a budget. It doesn't matter how much money you earn... I can't stress this enough. Make sure you have a budget! And make sure you use it. Don't just write it and forget about it.

OK, now my fourth point is about managing your debt. Before you borrow money, think about what you are borrowing it for. It's a good idea to borrow money to buy assets, for example, to buy a house. And it's a good idea to pay for your education. These things will still be worth something when you have finished paying off the debt. It isn't a good idea to borrow money for non-essentials, for example, expensive clothes, holidays or dinner at a nice restaurant. If you use credit cards for these things, it's important you know how much you are spending on them. Then, when the bill comes, pay the total bill every month. Don't just pay the minimum amount because you will always pay more, the interest that the credit card company adds on.

And my final tip for managing your money is to plan your savings. It's a good idea to save about ten per cent of your salary every month. Include this saving in your budget and try and increase how much you save every year. You could do this by increasing what you earn or decreasing what you spend, or both! Saving money is a lot more positive than paying the bills. So, there are five tips for managing your money successfully. They are simple but they work.